Foreword

We of the annual staff present this 1958 RHODODENDRON to you with the hope that in these pages you will see reflected some of the phases of college life which combine to make Appalachian more than a school—a place of preparation, of developing leadership, of making friends of serving others.

"Time," wrote Emerson, "dissipates to shining ether the solid angularity of facts." Although it was impossible to record all events, we have attempted to use as many words and pictures as possible trusting that, with the aid of this book, time will not "dissipate to shining ether" the memories of the year 1957-58 at Appalachian.

Administration and Faculty

In addition to their consistently excellent work in the fields of co-ordination and classroom instruction, the influence of these men and women is evident in many other facets of campus life. Their high ideals and principles serve constantly as examples to the two thousand students who are training for the teaching profession here at Appalachian.

Working willingly with students in extra-curricular activities and varied school projects, as well as serving as personal counselors to scores of others, they have displayed a genuine interest in the students beyond the limits of the classroom and have won the respect and admiration of the entire student body.

From the time a student enters Appalachian State Teachers College until the day he receives his diploma, a great deal of attention is focused on providing him with a liberal education. The somewhat general curriculum, embraced as a freshman, widens into many areas of specialization as sophomores and juniors and finally culminates in the methods courses and student teaching experience which highlight the senior year.

Since 1948 Appalachian has offered a Master's degree in education, and each year the college enrolls an increasing number of applicants for this degree. This year for the first time graduate fellowships were offered, thus enabling a student to gain valuable experience by teaching a limited number of college classes while working toward his M.A. degree.

part two EXTRA-CURRICULAR

Activities

Appalachian offers to prospective teachers a well-rounded extra-curricular program that is beneficial, as well as enjoyable. For each student there is a club to suit his own particular needs and interest. Through these organizations, the students are able to grow in their appreciation of the fine arts and the theater, to develop their creative talents, to voice their ideas, to promote professional interests, and to strengthen their Christian principles.

The Appalachian

A four-page, eight-column newspaper, The Appalachian is published by the students of the college. The editor and business manager are chosen in a campuswide election and other positions are filled by interested students.

New features of the paper this year include a 'Miss of the Month' contest and many changes in layout and type of print. Another added feature is the 'Personality of the Week' column which honors some deserving student in each issue.

Chi Lambda Chi

Chi Lambda Chi is composed of all the presidents of campus clubs and organizations. The duties of this organization are to discuss and solve problems that arise within the various clubs, such as attendance, participation, finance, leadership, and parliamentary procedure.

Chi Lambda Chi serves as a co-ordinating unit for the Student Council and the student body through campus clubs and activities, as a clearing house for the various club activities, and as an advisory body for club activities.

This year the club organized and conducted the Homecoming Parade and had as a main objective the revision and adaptation of a constitution for each club on campus.

The purpose of the Vernician Society is to broaden the outlook of the student through intellectual endeavor, cultural growth, social fellowship, and community service.

New members are nominated and elected by the old members. Upperclassmen and transfer students are initiated in the fall quarter and freshmen in the spring.

The club is active in work with underprivileged children. Other activities include a tea for the May Court and their guests, and this year, the girls assisted the Alumni Association with Homecoming Activities.

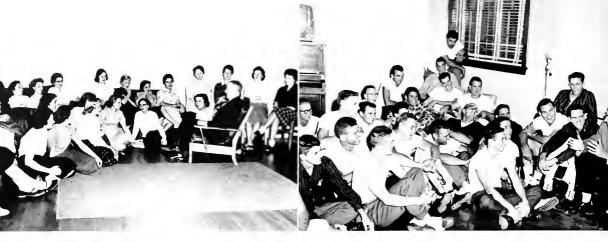

The society is under the sponsorship of Mrs. Ronald Brooks.

Religious Emphasis Week

A little red man with a large thumb introduced Religious Emphasis Week on Campus this year September 29-October 3. The theme for the week's activities was "Are you a Hitch Hiker?" Bishop George Henry, Bishop of the Diocese of Western North Carolina, from Trinity Episcopal Church in Asheville, was the keynote speaker of the week. Other speakers were Dr. Carl W. McMurray, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Marion; and Mr. Hutchinson, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Thomasville.

The week's events began Sunday with the speakers visiting the various churches. During the week Bishop Henry spoke to the classes in Assembly. On Monday afternoon everyone enjoyed a Hitch Hiker's Social Hour. The activities began each night with a singspiration, followed by seminars, and ended with dorm discussions.

To end the week's activities, Bishop Henry spoke to a mass meeting on Thursday night using the theme for the week, "Are You a Hitch Hiker?"

"Who's in the Driver's Seat?" is discussed by Bishop Henry Mr. Hutchinson and Dr. McMurray eat with Wilma and Bill

Athletics

Athletics play an important part in the program at Appalachian. Physical development and true sportsmanship are considered worthwhile objectives in the training of teachers.

Opportunity for participation in intercollegiate games or in the varied intramural activities is open to all, and genuine and enthusiastic support of the team is a campus tradition.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders are very closely associated with the various athletic activities on campus. Under the direction of Dr. John Van Noppen, this group works to promote interest in sports and sportsmanship during intercollegiate activities.

The cheerleaders are chosen on a competitive basis each spring and the chief cheerleader is chosen in a campus-wide election.

This year the cheerleaders, with the aid of some of the business men in town and the college faculty, were able to attend the football game at Tampa, Florida.

The group, through the generosity of the athletic department, was able to obtain new uniforms this year.

W.A.A. in action . . .

Women's Athletic Association

The club is composed of the girls who are physical education majors and of other students who are interested in this field. The activities of the W.A.A. are centered along the lines of physical education and exercise. They include volleyball in the fall, basketball in winter, and softball in spring. By participating in these activities, girls earn points which apply toward "A" Club membership.

The group sponsors an intramural program for non-majors and majors. This year the girls' basketball team has competed with many of the nearby colleges.

Features

At Appalachian special abilities, qualities, and achievements receive deserved recognition.

On the following pages are those who have been placed in these positions of honor by their teachers and fellow-students.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges

On the basis of service, citizenship, extracurricular activity, scholarship, and promise of future usefulness, twenty-nine Appalachian students are listed in
"Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."
The book is published to provide an incentive for students to get the most out of college and to recognize those who have been outstanding. Tapped in recognition of leadership and character, statements are nationally honored by this organization and benefit from its student placement service.
